

DOORS ARE MAD

Fourteen Bull Fighters Have Been Discharged.

SAY THEY'LL SUE

Have Been Turned Upon the Society of the World—What Their Managers Say.

The warm blood of the Mexican bull fighters is boiling. The swartly sons of Spain are mad. They have been discharged. They are artists out of jobs.

Mr. Porteous, concessionaire of the Mexican village and the bull fight, has bounded the lot of them—fourteen handsome, strapping fellows, who, in their fancy suits of five colors and their wide hats, have attracted a vast amount of attention in the vicinity of the Mexican village.

On account of the discharge of the highly-trained fighters, who are now wandering at their leisure about the city, there may be a lawsuit. In fact, Senor Tefereno Dominguez, the well-educated manager of the troupe of fighters, says there will be a lawsuit.

Since the exposition directors decided against the bull fight Mr. Porteous has been puzzled to know what he should do with the experienced bull fighters he had engaged to come here. It was evident to him that if the exposition directors did not resign he would have no need for the fighters. A Mexican bull fighter is not supposed to be able to do anything and a Mexican bull fighter at the exposition without work to do was practically useless.

Mr. Porteous, who is a native of Spain,
all of the fourteen bull fighters, saying they are absolutely useless to him and that they have loitered around him instead of doing him any good. They have been given themselves a nuisance around the Mexican village.

The bull fighters are mad, however, and shake their coat at Mr. Porteous, threatening a suit.

Zeferino Dominguez is manager of the bull fighters and Manuel Caballero is head of the bull fight. Caballero is an expert at bull fighting, having been graduated at a school of bull fighters in Spain. Mr. Porteous was to pay him $200 per month and the others were to get paid by the month. The contract was drawn up in Spanish language and if the suit is brought the contract must first be translated into English, and in the translation the contract may be worded so as to leave an avenue of escape for Mr.
Porteous should he fail to show that he was justified in discharging the Mexicans. Of course the paper would not be changed institutionally, but after translation it might read in such a way as to be technically null and void. If not this it will certainly leave room for fighting between the lawyers on both sides.

When notified of their discharge the bull fighters' Mexican blood rose and they were highly indignant toward Mr. Porteous.
Dressed in their national costume the Mexicans walked around the city in a way that plainly told that a storm had come over their peaceful and happy lives in revelry at the Mexican village on the city midway. They are now walking because the bull fights are not to be they say is not their fault. They believe that Mr. Porteous should be responsible to them for the act of the exposition directors and the exposition company be responsible to Mr. Porteous. Porteous is indebted to them already for a large amount, they claim, of back salary.

Mr. Porteous will claim in the suit that the bull fighters loitered around the village and lay around the Mexican village, making themselves a nuisance rather than doing him service.

The bull fighters are the first that ever came to Atlanta. They are dressed in the gorgeous bull fighter's costume with suiting of various colors. Every one of them is capable of doing good fighting in the arena, and had not the exposition directors stopped the proposed bull fight, they would like the sport—would have been treated to the first-class article.

Spencer Elected President.

New York, October 3.—At the meeting of the board of directors of the Alabama Great Southern road today the following officers were elected: Samuel Spencer, president; W. H. Baldwin, Jr., second vice president; W. W. Finley, first vice president; J. P. Hill, secretary. The following appointments were made to take effect from date: W. A. Vaughan, general superintendent; J. M. Culp, traffic manager;
C. H. Davis, controller; and H. H. Tatum, treasurer.

At the meeting of the executive committee of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company this afternoon an offer which was received for about $440,000 of the Debenture bonds, which were taken over with that company by the Tennessee Coal some time ago, was referred to the finance committee, consisting of Messrs. Simmons, Woodward and Swann.
The committee will probably report tomorrow. If the offer, which is about 55 cents, is accepted, it is said, will be applied to canceling the floating debt of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company.

Appelle, and the remainder of the Canadian delegation, and Christian greetings were exchanged.

In committee of the whole this afternoon the house of deputies declared convention threw overboard bodily the solemn declaration of faith with which the proposed new constitution and canons was prefaced, refused to consider the recommendation of the committee that the name of the triennial gathering be changed to the "general synod," and likewise rejected a proposition to recognize the title
"The Protestant Episcopal church in the United States." The overwhelming victory of the anti-revisionists in the matter of the declaration of faith and principles, and upon which the constitution of 1882 had expended much time, thought and labor, apparently demoralized its supporters, and to the motion to reject the new name of the assembly, they made but a feeble resistance.

When the hour for adjourning arrived,
a warm debate was in progress on the question of reinserting in the first paragraph of the constitution the clause making effective legislation originating in the house of deputies, and in which the bishops had failed to concur within three days. This feature of the Philadelphia constitution of 1879, and which is still in force, had been omitted by the revisionists, and their action was regarded by many of the delegates as a dangerous infringement of the rights of the lower house. At the rate of progress today, debate being unlimited, it would take over four months to complete consideration of the report. The anti-revisionists abandoned their intention of endeavoring to shelve the report at the outset, and as the document, when re-revised by the present gathering must be submitted to every diocesan convention in the United States for its action, the contest between the two elements will necessarily be renewed in the convention of 1938. Meanwhile the old constitution remains in force. The only action of interest on the part of the house of bishops was the adoption of a resolution approving by implication the resolution of the House of Commons, passed by the Texas legislature. Bishop Deane, of Albany, was placed in episcopal charge
of the churches and congregation in central New York.

When the delegates met in committee of the whole after the midday recess, a code of rules designed to prevent a repetition of the parliamentary maneuvers of New Mexico, and which had involved itself, was adopted, and thereafter there was smooth sailing.

Debate was inaugurated on the proposition to adopt a declaration, and verbal charges were presented by Deputies Taylor, of Springfield, and Scott, of Virginia.
Dr. Spaulding, of Alabama, took the ground that no declaration was necessary. There was, he said, a sufficient number of affirmations of faith in the Prayer Book.
Dr. Beverly Tucker, of South Virginia, concurred. Dr. Elliott, of Maryland, disagreed. He said that a declaration was a new constitution uniting expressly instructed to do so by the diocesan conventions under the precedents of the general convention of 1882 and 1888. It certainly had no such power. It was appealed to the delegates as to whether they had been empowered to set forth, establish or adopt a new law for the church, and there was a great deal of debate. The debate was continued by Drs. Edgar, of New York; Froude, of Minnesota; Davenport, of Tennessee, and ex-Governor Bradford Prince, of New Mexico. Finally Dr. Tucker moved that the declaration be referred to a committee of the whole. The motion was carried.

The constitution itself was now before the committee and by vote of 104 to 104
it was decided to pluralize it by calling it "constitutions." On the proposal to substitute the title "general synod" for "general convention," Dr. Jewell, of Milwaukee, made a vigorous speech. The so-called Presbyterians used the title to designate a secondary body and in that church it was a kind of third wheel. The so-called Lutherans also used the title and in one of their synods there were no less than four Lutheran synods and all by the same name. Dr. Carpenter, of New Jersey, favored the term "general council."

No Ballot Needed.

A fervid speech against the change was made by Dr. Pull of Philadelphia. When the vote was taken the "council" amendment was defeated and the proposal of the committee to adopt the designation
"general synod," met a similar fate. No ballot was needed. In a resolution by Dr. Barnett, of Virginia, to insert in the paragraph, "a general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States," instead of "this church," was voted down by a majority of 104 to 104.
The paragraph which merely defines the statutes of the convention was about to be adopted without further debate when Dr.
Taylor, of Springfield, discovered that the old provision by which legislation enacted by the deputies becomes a law if not objected to by the bishops within three days had been omitted. Then there was a great deal of discussion. The question was this: saving clause the bishops could "pocket" all undesirable legislation, and J. C. Biddle, the eminent Philadelphia lawyer, moved that the clause be restored.
The bishops, he said, ought to lead in obedience to the law, but they did not. At the convention of '89 they refused to concur in a certain measure because they never became a law. The measure was three days rule. He would like to know what the country would say if the president of the United States sent a messenger to Congress with a veto on the ground that he had had but a few days to consider the matter at issue. The bishops ought not to set the example of evasion of the constitution of the church. A warm response was made by Dr. Spaulding, of California, who said the preceding speaker had implied an unworthy suspicion of the house of bishops. It was the last day-end of an eventful session of the bishops and their motives that too long had existed in the church on the part of the people who wanted to stop up some little holes for trickery. The committee rose at the police and the debate will be resumed in the morning. Before the delegates dispersed it was announced that the day's offerings of the women's national auxiliary, now in session in St. Paul, had reached the remarkable total of $53,000. This was received with applause, but the demonstrators were sternly rebuked by Chairman Morgan Dix.

Chairman of Committees.

The chairman of the standing committees appointed today are:

In the state of church—Rev. Dr. Duncan, of Louisiana; general theological seminary, Dr. Little, of Delaware; domestic and foreign missionary society, Dr. Leffewell, conservation of bishops, Dr. Hoffman, of New York; amendments to the constitution, Dr. Huntington, of New York; on canons, Dr. Davenport, of Tennessee; expenses, Mr. Snowden, of Massachusetts; elections, Dr. Locke, of Chicago; on prayer book, Dr. Perkins, of Kentucky; on Christian education, Dr. Biers, of Vermont.

At the reception to the Canadian bishops and divines today Dr. Dix promised that the American church would send a fraternal delegation to the Dominion conference at Winnipeg.

command the department through the board of police commissioners if in session, or through the chief of police if the board is not in session. Having this power over the police department, the mayor should not be a member of the board of police commissioners, and in my opinion it was a mistake ever to have made him a member of it.

The board of police commissioners was created for the purpose of divorcing the police department from politics, by taking the election and control of the department away from the general council and placing it in charge of five citizens.
The five commissioners as a board have charge of the department, and not as individual members of the board.

No one member of the board has the authority to issue orders to the chief of police. He is not given this authority either by the charter or by the ordinances. The ordinance of the city says: "The chief of police is the chief executive officer of the police department, but he is always subject to the orders and regulations of the board of police commissioners, and it is his duty to promulgate them." But he is not made subject to the orders of any one member of the board of police commissioners.

The ordinance further says that "He shall have power to give such orders to the captains and members of the police force as he may deem proper, and it shall be their duty to render to him and to his orders implicit obedience." Of course, his orders must not conflict with the orders and regulations of the board of police commissioners, for the ordinance again says that it shall be his duty "to see especially that the rules and regulations of the board of police commissioners are carried into effect."

Another ordinance states expressly that
"He will be held responsible for the good order of the city and general conduct of the officers and men of the police force."
In my opinion, if the charter and ordinances are followed there can be no trouble in efficiently controlling the police department. They evidently do not contemplate that the chief of police shall be a mere figurehead, and on the contrary he is charged with the duty by law to be responsible for his discharge, of controlling the police department for the purpose of preserving the good order of the city and executing its laws and ordinances. If he receives orders only from the authorities authorized to issue them, he will have no trouble in discharging his duty. Yours respectfully, T. GLENN.

Editor Constitution—I think the chief of ber of that board should have anything to

should be the duty of the chief, as I understand will be the case in the future.

Editor Constitution—The chief of police should manage his department without allowing any of his interests to be interfered with by the commissioners. Yours truly, W. C. SANDERS.

Wants Connolly To Stay.

Editor Constitution—the solution of the police muddle is a good one. Chief Connolly is an able and fearless official who will now act without being hampered by the warring elements of the police commission.
I am especially pleased with the re-employment of Mr. Connolly, who, I understand, was discharged by the police commissioners for political reasons. Yours,
JACOB HAAS.

Let There Be a Head.

Editor Constitution—Chairman Johnson cannot be too highly commended for his action in placing the chief of police in full control of his department. If, as has been stated so often recently, Chief Connolly has been interfered with or hampered in any way by the commissioners, then the responsibility for the inefficiency of the force rested directly upon no one.

In New York city, for instance, the police department a short while since became notoriously corrupt, and Superintendent Byrnes disclaimed any responsibility for that state of affairs because he was hampered by the commission.

By all means let us have a head to the police department. I think Chief Connolly will demonstrate his capacity to handle the force if full authority is vested in his office.

management of the police department. I commend most heartily the patriotic mo-

the honorable board of police commis-

authority and discretion he so much needs
in the satisfactory discharge of his duty.

ON DUTY ONCE MORE

President Collier Has Assumed Control Again and Is Rushing the Work.

FIRST DAY AT HIS DESK

The President Has Several Important Suggestions To Make.

GENERAL GUTIERREZ BEFORE THE BOARD

The Mexican Makes a Speech Before the Directors and an Informal Reception Is Held.

President Charles A. Collier stood under the arch of the administration building last evening biding at the end of his afternoon. Before him flashed and reflected myriad lights and the strains of discord from the regions of the Midway floated over the vast area.

It was the ending of the first day's work of the president after his return from his vacation. It was the first time for nearly ten days he had occupied his office for a full day. He reached his desk very early. Already his room was filled with callers who had dropped in to look after various matters of interest to themselves. During the whole day the president was kept in a continual rush. All manner of visitors came on every conceivable subject. There were the bull farmers who claimed that they had been mistreated in being summarily dismissed from service and turned loose on the giddy whirl of the Midway without remuneration for services rendered or any hope of reward. There were people from abroad who dropped in to see about securing space. They had arrived too late and were not satisfied with the position assigned them. Could not the president fix them better? They had traveled thousands of miles for this purpose and had counted on better treatment. Could not an order for more space be issued in their favor? Then there were exhibitors and concessionaires who claimed that their rights had been infringed upon and that others had been doing the same business for which they had been granted the special privilege. There were a host of these petty waspish kickers who always follow in the wake of a great show.

With all of these the president had to consult. But a thousand other things had to occupy his time and attention. There was a cart load of written requests, communications on all kinds of subjects which had to be examined and for the most part answered.

It is not the big bothers that make the office of director general so onerous. This multitude of stinging trifles has more effect than the army of Lilliputia had against Gulliver. It was because of this ceaseless strain that the president was forced to seek a week's rest. But he comes back fully refreshed and invigorated and ready to keep the wheels of the great enterprise turning on for the progress of the south.

What He Will Do.

Standing there last night before the administration building President Collier looked over the grounds and thought of what was before him for the rest of the week. "During my absence," he said, "I find that the affairs of the exposition have progressed wonderfully. I find that all my departments are in splendid shape. The exposition has an efficient corps of chiefs. They are men who know thoroughly their business, and their executive ability is great. Since I have come all the rough places that were in these departments have been smoothed out. The machinery has been well lubricated and all of them are in good working condition. There is surely nothing amiss in any of the departmental work.

"I have noticed that the grounds, however, are not just as clean as they might be, that is, all of the rubbish from the long legs of exhibit installation has not been removed. Old boxes are lying around here and there, and in some places the grounds are yet bare. This gives the whole grounds a rather incomplete appearance. I shall look after the thorough cleaning of the grounds at once. All of the waste paper and trash of all kinds will have to be removed regularly, and the trash from the buildings where the carpenters have been recently at work, will have to be hauled away.

"As to the work in the buildings, that has about been completed, and all exhibits are permanently placed. Some of these are wonderful. The machinery hall has changed in appearance since I left, and what was then undone has now been completed. It promises me to find so many working exhibits there."

President Collier says that he is gratified with the large attendance of the past one or two days and he is glad to see that the cool weather had emptied the Atlanta people from the houses.

He has jumped into full harness again, and has taken up his duties in earnest.

Gutierrez Before the Board.

The swarthy, tropic-tinted hand of General Carlos Diaz Gutierrez, the governor of San Luis Potosi, clasped the hands of all the directors of the exposition company yesterday afternoon, and the bravest son of Mexico stood face to face with the most loyal and enterprising men of the south.

It was not the first time the Mexican had met the directors. He looked about and saw several familiar faces, which he had gazed upon during the visit of the special committee to his state.

It was an informal reception at the exposition headquarters, but before the hand-shaking all around, the general was in length expressing his gratification at so great a sight.

He spoke in Spanish. This was interpreted. It was a great pleasure, he said, for him to be in Atlanta. He had long looked forward to making the trip. He wanted to see Georgia and the great city of which he had heard so much. Then there were other reasons, of course. The exposition was the main cause, he said, for this strong desire to come. He had heard so much of the wonderful show in this country that he wished to see it. Since his arrival he has not seen very much of it, but what he had seen was a revelation. He had never dreamed of so great a work. He had thought it was on a smaller scale, and was unprepared for what he saw when he drove into the grounds. He would tell his people upon his return what was here. He is sure that they would all come who could.

Touching on the relations of Mexico and the south the general said that they should be warm friends. They were neighbors. They had many things in common. He recognized the feature in the exposition of establishing trade relations with the Central and South American countries, and he thought that Mexico could lend a hand to good effect. For quite a while the general spoke in an eloquent and appreciative strain.

President Collier replied in an appropriate way. He said that the general was a distinguished representative of Mexico to Atlanta and to the exposition. He wished to extend the cordial hand of greeting.

Senator Gonzalez also made a few interesting remarks. It was a happy occasion. After the speaking the general was introduced to all the members of the board of directors. Through his interpreter he had a pleasant word for each one he met.

After the adjournment of the session he was shown the grounds.

A Request for More Patrolmen. Resolutions introduced yesterday afternoon before the board of directors were adopted to the effect that the board of police commissioners be requested to increase the number of patrolmen at the exposition grounds.

These resolutions state that the present force in point of number is inadequate and that the men assigned there now cannot cover the whole grounds with any satisfaction to the officers. The exhibitors are somewhat uneasy because of the scarcity of police protection, and this with various other reasons call for an increase in the force.

After some discussion the directors approved of the action of the executive committee in fixing the season tickets of the members of the Piedmont Driving Club at $10.

The Opening of the Foreign Sections. Tomorrow afternoon in the hall of the manufactures and liberal arts building the formal inauguration of the foreign section will be held. For some days Chevalier Macchi has been busy preparing for the occasion, and it promises to be an unusual event. Following is the form of the invitations which have been sent out for the occasion:

"The commissioner general for Europe to the Cotton States and International Exposition, Atlanta, 1895, Mr. A. Macchi, and the official representatives from France (Mr. R. Saulay), Italy (Mr. Scialoja), Great Britain (Mr. H. Hillman), Austria (Mr. L. Hornstein), request the honor of your presence at the official opening of the European sections, manufactures and liberal arts building, on Saturday, October the fifth, at 3 p. m."

The visitors will assemble in the hall at 3 o'clock. The first feature will be the selections by Gilmore's band of airs of all nations.

Colonel W. A. Hemphill will preside at the ceremonies and will deliver the opening address. This will be followed by a speech from Mr. Macchi formally turning over the foreign sections to the exposition. President Collier will respond.

Speeches will also be made by Messrs. Saulay and Hillman in behalf of the countries they represent. These speeches will be interspersed with music by Gilmore's band.

After the closing of the exercises the foreign exhibits will be examined and explained. Light refreshments will be served.

Why the Light Failed.

Last night the grounds at the exposition were brilliantly illuminated from the building of every dome to the base of every building and all of the lights were shining brightly. During the last two days the electrical department has been diligently at work and is rapidly completing all details.

Hagenback on His Way.

Hagenback, with his family of trained animals, is coming. This is assured. The building will be started today and in short time this famous show will be ready. The representative of Hagenback, Mr. Hoffmeyer, is now at the exposition grounds attending to the arrangements for the coming of the show. The building will be located on the Midway between the show the chutes and the streets of Cairo.

Ferris's Great Show.

Ferris, the man of wheel fame, is preparing to make at the Cotton States and International exposition a phenomenal attraction. It is the world's fair in miniature and will be one of the most wonderful things of its kind ever produced. This mechanical genius left Atlanta several days ago after making up preparations and will bring the miniature next week. Mr. Griffin, his representative, is supervising the erection of the building, which is at an end of the forestry hall.

PIONEERS MEET TODAY.

They Want a Day Set Apart During the Exposition.

A day for the pioneers of Atlanta will no doubt be set apart during the exposition.

The afternoon at 4 o'clock, in the office of Ordinary Calhoun, a meeting of the Atlanta Pioneer society will be held for the purpose of taking into consideration the advisability of holding exercises in commemoration of Atlanta's early days.

It will be an impressive feature of the exposition if the plan of the society is carried out. It is the world's fair in miniature and will be one of the most wonderful things of its kind ever produced. This mechanical genius left Atlanta several days ago after making up preparations and will bring the miniature next week. Mr. Griffin, his representative, is supervising the erection of the building, which is at an end of the forestry hall.

Every member of the Pioneer society is expected to attend the meeting this afternoon.

Minnesota Editors Leave This Morning at 8 O'Clock.

DELIGHTED WITH OUR FAIR

Lieutenant Governor Day Talks of What He Saw Here—Is a Great Exposition.

The Minnesota editors who happily invaded Atlanta Wednesday morning and who, for the past two days, have been taking in the exposition and Atlanta, will leave for home this morning at 8 o'clock on a special train of three sleepers on the Western and Atlantic road.

Wednesday the editors went to the exposition in a body and yesterday some of them went to see the fair again, while the others went around the city to the parks and other places.

Last night they held a social session in the writing room at the Oriental hotel, where they stopped while here. At this session the following presents were bestowed upon prominent members of the association. To C. C. Whitney, president of the association, a fine gold watch; to H. P. Hall, member of the executive committee of three, a cutglass pitcher; C. E. Stein, upholstered chair; David Rameley, treasurer, a fine silk umbrella, and to Mr. and Mrs. Dowling, who were romantically married at the Oriental Wednesday, a silver tea set.

Lieut. Gov. Day on the Fair.

One of the most prominent of the Minnesota editors is Lieutenant Governor Frank Day. Lieutenant Governor Day is a man of the brightest pages in the northwestern. He said it surpassed the expectations of the Minnesota editors 100 per cent. "The exposition is great," said Lieut. Governor Day. "It is second only to the world's fair, and to a northern visitor is much more interesting and satisfactory for the reason that we have an opportunity to familiarize ourselves with the customs and manners, the industries and the institutions of the southern people. Besides, there was too much of the Chicago fair, and we became surfeited with sight-seeing and could not remember and appreciate one-half on the grounds. Here it is different. In a few days I can inspect the very cream of the civilization and barbarous world. But you should not close the exposition before the middle of February. If you could keep it open till that time our people would come down here by the thousands to escape the rigor of our northern winter. We have enjoyed our visit beyond our power to express and our hearts have went out toward all Atlanta for the hospitable manner in which we have been received."

Every member of the association talked just as enthusiastically of the exposition and Atlanta as did Lieutenant Governor Day. The party is a jolly one, and especially were they so last night at their social session. The party was composed of the best journalists of the northwestern. D. Sinclair, editor of The Daily Republican, of Winona, was one of the party. He is the oldest newspaper man in Minnesota. For twenty-one years he was postmaster at Winona, and in 1880 he was chairman of the Minnesota delegation to the republican convention at Chicago and was one of the 206 who voted for Blaine.

The resolutions adopted last night by the association at their social session follow:

"This annual meeting of the Minnesota Editors and Publishers Association will form one of the brightest pages in the history of the organization. The trip to Atlanta has been one of full enjoyment, and all participants, replete with historic information to the membership present, and will prove a most profitable and happy one to all who have so generously contributed to our comfort and happiness."

"Your committee on behalf of this association in solemn recognition of the favors received, begs to present for the action of the association the following resolutions:

"First, That to C. C. Whitney, president of the association, C. E. Stein, acting secretary, and H. P. Hall, the irrepressible, we owe a debt of gratitude for the comfortable enjoyment of the limits of our round of pleasure which has been ours from the hour of departing from our northern beloved homes. Words are inadequate to express our appreciation as we feel in the fullness of our hearts, but these gentlemen can rest in the assurance that the absence of words is only a more complete index to our deep sense of gratitude toward them for what they have done to make this the most pleasurable, as well as the most profitable, outing of the many enjoyable excursions in the history of our beloved organization.

"Second, That we are most mindful of the generous-hearted treatment received at the hands of Samuel Stecker, manager of the Chicago Great Western railroad, and for the personal consideration accorded us by C. E. Robb, the genial city ticket agent at St. Paul, of this most excellent railroad system, are we especially indebted.

"Third, That the Chicago and Eastern Illinois is a line excellently equipped, from the president down to the dining-car conductors, and to General Passenger Agent—one, one of those genial spirits which shines by night as well as by day, do we return our thanks for the kindly attention showered upon, and also by those prince of good fellows, Charles W. Humphrey, of St. Paul, and Mr. Rogers, of Nashville, both of whom belong to this transportation system.

"Fourth, To the Louisville and Nashville railroad, through Mr. C. P. Atmore, general passenger agent, do we untold and enthusiastically return thanks for the splendid service and general recognition, and to that genial spirit and polished gentleman, J. K. Riskey, a Chicago representative of this splendid system, do we especially recognize as one of our kind who has shown us the most comfortable and welfare while en route over his line.

"Fifth, To Mr. William H. Barry, general passenger agent of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway, are we greatly indebted, and to Superintendent Wrenn, at Nashville, for the courtesy of a special train to Chattanooga, do we make tious in their claims, but less demonstrative in their doings.

"Ninth, That the Pullman Palace Car Company is entitled to our appreciation for considerate favors, and we thank the management for courtesies received.

"Tenth, That these resolutions be published in every paper represented in this excursion, and that copies of the same be sent to all individuals and corporations herein recognized. Respectfully submitted, L. P. HUNT, E. C. HUNTINGTON, S. P. BARE, L. P. HUNT.

The party will probably stop over a day at Nashville, and reach St. Paul early Sunday morning.

A negro who was left to hold a mule yesterday morning drove off. The mule was attached to a wagon loaded with fruit. Mule, wagon and fruit belonged to William Mitchell, an East Point negro.

The mule and wagon were found in the possession of Luke Morgan in Lowe's alley. She was arrested and locked up. The boy who stole the turnout and drove it to the woman's house could not be found, but the police expect to capture him today.

The case was taken charge of by Sergeant Ball and Officers Doyle and Willie.

WARREN MILLS DESTROYED.

Flames Consume a Large Cotton Manufactory.

Providence, R. I., October 3.—One of the most destructive fires that has occurred in this state in many years this evening destroyed the buildings constituting the mills of the Warren Manufacturing Company at Warren, making fine sheeting and shirtings, and caused a loss of over $1,000,000. Just how the fire started is not known yet, but an explosion is said to have occurred in the engine room. The fire broke out about 7 o'clock and before the Warren fire department could get water enough the mill was well lighted and blazing fiercely. Aid was telephoned for to Fall River and this city, and from here two steamers were sent. The totally destroyed and a lumber yard adjoining was badly scorched as were the companies' tenements. The disaster will throw about 1,500 people out of employment so far as known is: On mills and machinery, $50,000; tenements, $100,000; warehouses and contents, not known. The town is practically ruined by the fire.

An Alumni Meeting.

There will be a meeting of the Alumni Association of the Southern Medical college in the college hall October 10th. Speeches will be made by Colonel W. C. Glenn, Dr. Thomas S. Powell, John P. Shannon and others.

TENNESSEE'S DAY.

Tomorrow at the Exposition Will Be Made Memorable.

COL. HENDERSON TO PRESIDE

A Great Programme Has Been Prepared for the Occasion—Many Tennesseans Coming.

The Tennessee editors are here.

They came last evening at 7 o'clock and are quartered at the Oriental hotel.

They will visit the exposition grounds this morning in a body leaving the Oriental at 9 o'clock sharp.

They will be received by the officials of the department of publicity and promotion of the exposition and will be shown the fair during the day.

There will be no executive sessions of the association during the day, the regular annual convention having already been held at Lookout mountain in May.

There is a large number of prominent editors from the state of Tennessee with the excursionists. They come from all quarters of the state and represent the sanctums of the best journals of their state.

Many of the editors have brought their wives with them and there will be a special programme for the ladies of the party.

Tomorrow afternoon from 2 o'clock to 5 o'clock there will be a reception given the ladies of the Tennessee editorial association at assembly hall.

The members of the fine arts committee, of which Mrs. William Dickinson is chairman, and the members of the committee on professional work of women, Mrs. W. A. Hemphill is chairman, are urged by the chairman to accept an invitation to join with the women from Tennessee tomorrow afternoon between the hours named and aid in the reception.

There will be plenty for the editors to see at the fair.

They intend to devote two days to seeing the sights of the exposition and declare if there's any set of fellows in this world that would enjoy such sights the Tennessee pencil pushers are the ones. It is a well known fact that Tennesseans never fail to make themselves at home wherever they go, and with such a spirit they will take the exposition by storm bright and early this morning.

Something of the Association.

The Tennessee Press Association comprises in its membership a forceful representation of the brains and strength of the body politic.

The organization is an old one and has had as members some of the leading men of the body politic.

The president of the association at present is Colonel J. E. McGowan, of Chattanooga. The secretary is Hon. Pitkin C. Springs, of Memphis.

The chairman of the executive committee, Hon. A. E. Baird, is here in charge of the party.

Colonel William J. Slatter, of Winchester, Tenn., is perhaps the oldest member of the association. He is with the excursionists who have come down to enjoy the fair and is or will be the last man of the war, where it is said the last gun of the confederate army was fired. Colonel Slatter was telling "the boys" last night that he fought at home in Georgia, that he has come for the purpose of having a good time. He is accompanied by his charming young daughter, who is a typical representative of the feminine loveliness of Tennessee.

The editors say they intend to take things easy and not be in a hurry to get home. Atlanta welcomes them cordially.

Tennessee's Fair Commissioner.

Mrs. Mildred Spotswood Mathews, commissioner from Tennessee for the woman's department of the Atlanta exposition, is a lady of fine presence, magnetism, influence and indomitable energy; these endowments inherited qualities. Her father, Colonel Benjamin Cash, was a native of North Carolina; at the outbreak of the war he was a wealthy planter living in west Tennessee near Memphis. Her mother was a Durrig and was born near Richmond, Va. Both were descended from prominent revolutionary families. Miss "Spotie" was a slip of a girl during the war and was familiar with the tramp of soldiers and the dash of partisan hordes. It was during this period that she met the young soldier who was to be her future husband—Captain J. Harry Mathews. They were married four years after the close of the war and have been blessed with five most interesting children and a happy household.

After her marriage, although having the best opportunities for contact with society and the world, devoted herself for many years most assiduously to her home and family—still finding time for most culture, as well as household and church work. She organized the first chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Tennessee and was the first regent and now is serving her third term as state regent. She has attended several national congresses, made various addresses and contributed frequently to The American Magazine of History as well as for other publications. When the New Liberty bell movement was started she was appointed a committee one for Tennessee in the national committee and was instrumental in collecting much of the valuable historic material of which it is composed. When the Cotton States and International exposition was projected she was promptly suggested and commissioned to represent the women of Tennessee who have made such an interesting and creditable exhibit. They had many discouragements to overcome, but in spite of these, have triumphed where others would have failed without a body of superior tact and executive ability. Mrs. Mathews is a thoroughly womanly woman, earnest and unflinching, employing the best tactics in all she undertakes. She is a lineal descendant of Sir General Alexander Spotswood, whose portrait was sent by her and adorns a conspicuous place in the colonial exhibit, and is otherwise of the bluest of the blue blooded people. Beautiful and graceful, gracious in manner and a brilliant conversationalist, she is one of the most attractive women of the south and a favorite wherever she goes, north or south.

TO MEET AT ATLANTA.

Populists Want To Hold Their National Convention Here.

Topoka, Kan., October 3.—The leading populists of Kansas have started an agitation for an early national convention and will urge Atlanta, Ga., as the place for February 21 as the time, so that a nomination can be made February 20, Washington's birthday. Senator Peffer, Hon. Harry Simpson, Chairman Breidenbach and others will urge this date and place on the national committee in the several states. This is done to force the national committee as they say both of the old parties are advocating a short campaign in order to sidetrack the financial issue.

Gilmore's Sacred Concert.

Gilmore's splendid band, directed by Victor Herbert, will render a grand sacred concert programme at the Grand on Sunday afternoon, by special arrangement. The programme, as made out by Mr. Herbert, is one of the very best yet arranged by him for Atlanta, and includes solo features that will give the place a new fill to the house. These, added to the band numbers, form an event of extraordinary attractions.

Oscar Booker, of Wilkes.

Washington, Ga., October 3.—(Special.)—Mr. Oscar Booker, an old citizen of Washington, D. C., died at his home in Washington, D. C., last night. He was 80 years of age. His remains will be brought here today for interment.

Interesting Second Day's Session of the Association Yesterday.

MANY LEARNED PAPERS READ

Hon. W. H. Fleming Was Re-Elected President.

MR. BURTON SMITH WAS HONORED

Entertaining Papers on Timely Subjects Read and Live Questions Discussed.

It was entertaining day with the lawyers in the bar convention yesterday. Learned papers were read and questions vital to the legal fraternity were discussed.

Yesterday's session was held in the superior courtroom instead of the auditorium at the exposition. President Fleming presided.

While the attendance of visiting lawyers was not as large as on the day previous, yet with the presence of the local bar the deficiency was more than compensated for in numbers.

The session had not advanced very far before Hon. William B. Hornblower, of New York, guest of the association, was escorted into the assembly. He was warmly greeted by the association in a manner befitting both the occasion and the distinguished jurist. Mr. Hornblower listened with deep interest to several papers read by the members and discussed.

Jurisdiction and Law Reform.

The first order of business was the report of the committee on jurisdiction and law reform. Hon. Walter B. Hill, of Macon, presented the report, reading a paper on this topic. It was a carefully prepared treatise on the subject and was listened to with marked attention.

MR. ALEX C. KING, Who Read an Able Paper Before the Bar Meeting Yesterday.

He discussed the question as to whether attorneys should be elected to each county or circuit who should represent in civil cases those people who are too poor to employ counsel. Frequently the amounts in civil cases are very small and the condition of the litigants are unable to pay the fees demanded. No recommendations were made in the report. The question was merely raised and many excellent arguments on both sides were given. He also gave a general review of jurisprudence, dwelling on the objects of the bar association and the aims and objects of the University of Pennsylvania on the science of jurisprudence, and recommended the printing of the address of this able jurist, for the use of the Georgia Bar Association. The report suggested that the attorney in any city be required to represent the poor in addition to his other duties, his salary being increased so he could devote his entire time to this practice. The report was received and ordered spread upon the minutes.

Mr. Alex C. King's Fine Paper.

Mr. Alex C. King, of Atlanta, then presented an address on "Ultra Vires Acts of Corporations." This treatise, though lengthy, was full of interest and offered many splendid points for deep study. He treated the subject comprehensively, elucidating the doctrine and the rights of corporations overreaching their legal power. He said that the vast accumulations of wealth and enormous patronage of power possessed by many corporations, thus bestowing of public franchises upon them, governmental functions as the maintenance of the public highways and the means of rapid communication, and the printing of money, emphasizing the importance of the doctrine by which these creatures are limited. He reviewed the trend of judicial opinions pointed out by the Georgia supreme court and showed under what circumstances the doctrine applied. He demonstrated that there is a well defined judicial doctrine against the doctrine of ultra vires. He cited numerous authorities of courts of last resort. Mr. King was congratulated by the members of the body for the comprehensive and clear manner in which he treated the subject. The report was also ordered spread upon the minutes.

Another Excellent Paper.

The report of the committee on "Judicial Administration and Remedial Procedure" was read by Judge Marshall J. Clarke in the absence of Hon. N. J. Hammond, the chairman of the committee. It dealt mainly with the working of the judicial system, showing what had been done within the past few years to render it more simple, more effective and more expeditious, one special change being the merging of the law and equity branches. In short, it followed up the evolution of the present system and pointed specifically what changes for the better has been brought about.

"When one reflects," the report goes on, "that the principles of equity and jurisprudence have been applied in the same manner as the law, and that the modes of equity and the modes of law, and courts of equity, and the superior court to which have been committed equity jurisdiction had power to mould its decrees and decrees on the law side to meet the exigencies of any equitable cause of action, he can but wonder at the delay of this measure."

An Oasis in a Desert.

The next number on the programme was of that delightful character which brings a genuine diversion from the sterner and deeper discussions of the legal mind. It was an oasis in a desert, if that figure may be allowed by laymen. Reference is made to the paper read by Judge John W. Akin, of Cartersville, the efficient secretary of the association, who has been a long time a member of the association. Judge Akin selected a happy subject—"The Post Bieckler," when he hit upon such a grand man to show his poetic side. It gave him scope to ascend to flights of fancy and indulge in rhetorical periods beautiful, grand and rhythmic. The judge did with perfect ease and oratorical grace.

In the opening lines of the subject the orator and lawyer and jurist sings in the following strains:

"A son of the mountains; catching in early youth an inspiration from their blue heights which probably only those few feel who climb their shadows—an inspiration of the ideal and the beautiful which makes one think the unspeakable and turn to poetry in the hopeless effort to tell what he feels; marrying the law and devoting himself to this chosen path of duty and active life until, when the shadows are lengthening fast, he voluntarily divorces himself from the mistress of his youth in order to be fondly loved by the more swiftly and catch the more quickly a phantom which, like a mirage in the desert, has danced before the deluded vision of the aged man, and left only to him the empty grasp—the phantom of financial truth."

In the splendid address many of Judge Bieckler's first efforts and other selections from his pen from time to time were read, some in full and others in part. Every word of the paper was listened to with rapt attention. The address was punctuated with frequent applause. By this effort Judge Akin made himself the toast of the convention. It was a happy number in the session of the convention's proceedings. The paper was spread upon the minutes.

On Admission to the Bar.

Next came the report of the committee on "Legal Education and Admission to the Bar," read by H. G. Gochius, of Columbus. He reviewed the various acts of the state legislature regulating admission to the bar and the rules established in part for the same purpose. Reference was made to the bill now pending in the legislature, which has passed the house and will be acted upon by the senate at the approaching session of the legislature. By this bill the greatest strictness is required in the examination of candidates. Written examinations are called for and a committee of the most eminent lawyers in each circuit provided to conduct the examinations. Allusion was made to a factious objection by one of the legislative committee who did not believe that a lawyer should be required to pass the examination in the examination of candidates. The report also spoke of that judge, the late William H. Crawford, who required the clerk to issue a license to a candidate who had not answered a single question on the law. The judge said that if anybody was fool enough to employ such a lawyer it was that man's lookout.

The committee reported against such practice and said the public ought to be protected against the admission of incompetent attorneys. It is a duty the legislature owes to the people to make such rules as will prevent ignorant shysters from imposing on the credulous.

On Motion of Mr. W. B. Hill it was ordered that three hundred copies of the report be printed and the committee be instructed to urge before the legislature the passage of a law along the line referred to.

On Constitutional Law.

Hon. Washington Dession, of Macon, read a clear-cut and comprehensive paper of constitutional law. He reviewed the constitutions of the various states and ably and elaborately discussed state constitutions, bringing out the salient features in each. He referred particularly to the election of judges, showing that out of the forty-four states in the union all except a few in the south elect their judges by the people and that hardly any elect by the legislature. He took issue with the position of the legislature in judicial office and characterized it as undemocratic and un-American. He strongly advocated the election of judges by the people, and said that in theory as well as in practice the best judges were those chosen by the people. Other resemblances between constitutions of different states were pointed out, showing a thorough mastery of the subject. The paper was highly complimented and will go on the minutes of the convention as the others.

The committee on memorials through its chairman, Hon. Fleming duBignon, asked leave to submit its report in time for the printing in the minutes, for the reason that sixteen in the past of said of the committee had detained them at home and the committee had not prepared a report. Leave was granted.

The committee on nominations reported. The committee consisted of the following gentlemen: Joseph Terrill, Fleming duBignon, Walter E. Hill, Howard V. Epps and F. D. Peabody. The committee reported the following nominations for officers of the association for the ensuing year.

Officers Elected.

President, John W. Parks, of Greenville; first vice president, Pope Barrow, of Savannah; second vice president, Burton Smith, of Atlanta; third vice president, F. D. Peabody, of Columbus; fourth vice president, C. M. Smith, of Hawkinsville; fifth vice president, Hamilton McWhorter, of Lexington; secretary, John W. Akin, of Cartersville; treasurer, Z. D. Harrison, of Atlanta; executive committee, H. G. Gochius, of Columbus; T. A. Hammond, of Atlanta; C. P. Steed, of Macon, and H. W. Hill, of Greenville.

The report was heard and the secretary was instructed to cast the vote of the convention for their election. This was done and the officers were unanimously elected. The report of the committee on grievances was then read by the chairman, W. W. Gordon, of Savannah. The burden of the report was against the lawyer practice that is being noticed in the profession. He scored this kind of practice strongly and deplored its existence generally. The report was received and concurred in.

Mr. Smith's Election.

The election of Mr. Burton Smith to the office of third vice president of the association was a compliment to the young attorney which will bring upon him the congratulations of his hosts of friends. Mr. Smith is one of the most prominent lawyers in the city and has been a member of the bar only through the course of a young man's life, and since he was admitted to practice after graduating from the State university he has gradually risen in the profession to such a standing as has made his recent recognition by the members of the Georgia State Bar Association most fitting.

Mr. Smith as a member of the committee in charge of the work of preparing for the entertainment of the visiting lawyers has been active and conspicuous and his services on behalf of the local bar in this regard have been very greatly appreciated.

In the election of Mr. John W. Parks, of Greenville, to the presidency of the association, this distinguished body of representative men of Georgia has conferred an honor upon him that he may well feel proud of. It is the highest office in the gift of the body. That President Parks will give to it dignity and wear the mantle of greatness with equal grace of his predecessors goes without question. Mr. Parks was unavoidably prevented from attending the deliberations of the body, but he sent his best wishes for a successful meeting. He was notified yesterday of his election. President Parks is one of the most prominent lawyers in the western part of the state. He has held several public offices of prominence, and it must be said of him that no one ever better discharged the duties incumbent upon him than he. He stands at the head of his vocation and enjoys an unusual popularity. He will appoint the various standing committees later on and announce the same.

At the Capital City Club yesterday morning a breakfast was given in honor of Mr. William Hornblower, of New York, the orator of the convention this session. It was a most pleasant affair. The guests were arranged at the table in the following order: Mr. Alex. W. Smith, chairman of the executive committee, and Mr. Hornblower at one end; at the other end sat Judge W. T. Newman, of the United States court, and Mr. W. B. Hill, of Macon. About the table the others were seated in the order named: W. H. Fleming, Burton Smith, W. P. Hill, Fulton Colville, J. T. Glenn, B. H. Hill, Alex. C. King, James P. O'Neill, W. R. Hammond, John W. Akin, Washington Dession, W. C. Glenn and Joseph Terrill. An hour was pleasantly spent by this congenial lot of attorneys.

In the afternoon Judges Lumpkin and Akin and Mr. Burton Smith called for Mr. Hornblower at the Aragon and enjoyed a very delightful drive about the city and the environs. Their hosts, Mr. Hornblower, accompanied by his wife and Miss Miller, of Washington city, will leave for their northern homes. Their sojourn in Atlanta has been exceedingly charming and pleasant.

Many of the delegates left for their respective homes yesterday afternoon; others leave today.

Prominent among the visiting representatives here yesterday at the convention were: H. H. Perry, of Gainesville; Judge Gochius, of Marietta; Judge MacDonald, of Savannah; Fleming duBignon, also of Savannah; Hansel Merrill, of Washington; Washington Dession, of Macon; W. C. Brantley, of Marietta; J. W. Gordon, of Savannah, a young lawyer, but as bright as any in the state; Judge John W. Akin, of Cartersville, and Mr. A. C. W. solicitor of the Cherokee circuit and pluming for the judgeship there.

WHO FIRED THAT SHOT That Frightened Gustin and Caused Him To Stop?

John Gustin, a young man looked up at police headquarters last night on a charge of suspicion, was shot by a young man as was ever brought to police headquarters. During the exciting chase on the railroad tracks some one fired a pistol right behind Gustin, and he fell to the tracks, thinking that he had been shot.

The lively chase occurred on Wall street and the railroad tracks. Gustin was chased across Whitehall street and up the tracks past the Broad street bridge, as he ran under the structure one of his pursuers fired a pistol behind him, scaring the young man badly. He stumbled and fell on the tracks in a heap. Thinking that he had been shot the young man began yelling and continued it until assured by the arresting officer that he was not hurt.

Gustin and a young man named Stone were pointed out near the union depot Tuesday night by Detective Conway as being the same as the young man who was arrested by the police on the charge of being a vagrant and other officers attempted to arrest the young man, and the latter made a break for liberty. Stone was captured by officers before he got to the depot and was taken to the police station. He was a young man, about 20 years of age, of medium build, and he ran some distance before being captured. Both young men started up the tracks toward Whitehall street, to get the opinions of the bar of the bar to direct the committee in its work.

The president expressed himself as against the double supreme court. He asked Mr. Harris as to the amount of the criminal business before the supreme court, to which Mr. Harris replied that it was not expedient to say it was desired.

Judge Hillier favored an intermediate court with appellate jurisdiction to hear appeals on law and equity. The president's writ of error appeal may be made direct to the supreme court.

Judge Hammond, of Atlanta, favored an intermediate court with appellate jurisdiction to hear appeals on law and equity. The president's writ of error appeal may be made direct to the supreme court.

Mr. Slaton took issue with Mr. T. A. Hammond on the abolition of the contingent fee system, arguing in its favor. He favored the fee system or its equivalent.

The motion or resolution of Mr. Alex King was then put and carried. The president has the appointment of the special committee to prepare a memorial to the governor, which was not present at the convention, hence could not make the appointments. He will attend to that within the next two weeks. The president of the association was made a member of the committee.

The association expressed its thanks to Mr. William B. Hornblower for his presence at the meeting of the association and for the able address he delivered before the convention yesterday.

A resolution was offered and passed that a members delinquent in dues not exceeding $10 can be reinstated by the payment of that amount.

The convention then adjourned sine die.

The World of Women

The Virginia tea room had a busy time yesterday. It is a perfectly fascinating place and the crowds are fast finding it out and gathering there for a draught of the cozy cup that cheers without inebriating. The upper balcony has all been inclosed with glass so as to keep out the cool autumnal breezes and there are placed pretty chippendale tables spread with fine linen, upon which tea, cakes and cream are served.

The walls are decorated with a dado of palm branches and the hangings are of white and green colonial muslin, while the windows are draped with airy dotted muslin drilled with lace. The artistic effect of the place is charming indeed, and so are the pretty Virginia gentlemen, girls and matrons, who serve there.

If a body wants to get the genuine flavor of an old-fashioned cup of tea and keep it as a constant reminder of the olden times, the pretty colonial cups offered as souvenirs of the tea room. These show stately short-waisted ladies and frilled gentlemen treading the stately measures of the minute.

Mrs. Andrew Simonds was busy with the assembly hall yesterday. She has all her boxes of precious treasures in the way of furniture and bric-a-brac unpacked. The furniture for the room is all there and it will be in perfect readiness by tomorrow.

Yesterday Mrs. Clark Howell was busy installing permanent exhibits, giving to the spaces assigned them in the upper gallery. This will be the center of everything.

Already I seem to see the big crowds that are sure to gather about these busy workers to watch their methods, many of them to learn and profit thereby.

Among the twelve deeply interesting exhibits it is difficult to decide which one will have the most interest for the public.

The Assyrian women weaving rugs and draperies will certainly be unique and interesting, and then there is a little English woman who applied for space very recently and because of her exquisite art in lace making they are going to make a space for her somewhere, although the space committee didn't see at first how it could possibly be done. The little woman you must know is the only one who will make a round point and point applique lace in this country and examples she has to show of her handiwork are as fine as any that ever adorned the robe of a queen. All the twelve workers are here ready to begin their tasks. The way in which Mrs. Howell has accomplished alone and unaided the tremendous work necessary to the perfection of this feature deserves no end of commendation. She took up the work quite late and has carried it through beautifully, going on quietly to her work for purpose and teaching many of her sister women thereby that blessed is the chairman who has no committee.

Mrs. J. Harvey Mathes, the chairman of the Tennessee women's commission, is the guest of Miss Josephine Inman. Mrs. Mathes is the state regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution and is one of the most distinguished southern women. She has been untiring in her interest and in her work for the exposition, especially the woman's department, and is one of the most prominent lady visitors of the Tennessee party.

Mrs. W. B. Lockett, of Knoxville, is registered at the Aragon. She is one of the prominent members of the Tennessee delegation and is here to attend the Tennessee Day exercises.

Mrs. Lockett and Mrs. McClung have issued invitations to the woman's board to a tea to be given in the woman's building Saturday afternoon. All of the members of the woman's board are invited to occupy reserved seats on Wednesday during the exercises at 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

The governor of San Luis Potosi will today present a towel made by his wife to the president of the hospital committee through Mrs. Nellie Peters Black. The presentation will occur this afternoon.

The woman's board have been extended an invitation by General J. E. Barnes, president and general manager of the Electric Transportation Company, to take a ride on Clara Meer, in his beautiful new launches. This afternoon the forty members will accept.

Several of the members of the woman's board were the guests of General Barney at the display of fireworks on Wednesday night. Their boat was directly in front of the grand panorama, where they had a delightful view of the exercises.

The "Shoot the Chutes" will be run on Saturday for the benefit of the Daughters of the Confederacy.

Women Explorers Will

Talk of Their Travels.

Today the congress of congresses will be held in the auditorium. With Miss Margherita Arlina Hamm as chairman of the day and the program that has been arranged, it will surpass all others. Among the speakers will be Miss Margherita Arlina Hamm, who will furnish music during the intermissions, which makes the occasion the more pleasing.

The subject of the congress is "Women Travelers," which is enough to assure that it will be interesting. Miss Hamm requests the audience to ask questions during her talk and this will make it the more interesting.

All of the other ladies on the programme are well-known travelers. Each will talk of the countries of which she is the most familiar.

The "Women Travelers" congress deserves a large audience and that will not be difficult to secure. Among the visitors who will attend this congress today are several ladies of the Tennessee delegation who have arrived for Tennessee Day.

The Tribute of a

Famous New England Writer.

The Cotton States and International exposition marks an epoch in the history of this country. Only the occasional visitor or the northern business man with interests in this way has any conception of what the "new south" really is. Booker Washington's statement that the southern people are the truest friends of the negro is a shock of surprise from the north and west; but here is this great exposition showing the wonderful development not only of the colored race, but of the spirit of charity and helpfulness on the part of the highest class of the southern people to back him up. Visitors from the north will find in the negro building one of their greatest surprises in coming to the exposition. It has been left to the south to give the negroes the assistance and encouragement that comes from recognizing the progress of the race in this negro building; just as it has been left to The Atlanta Constitution to establish the first regular department in a great newspaper devoted to the interests of the colored people. This form one of the most interesting sociological studies of the exposition.

But in every other way this is an interesting study, not only for the sociological student, but for every man, woman and child who comes to Atlanta within the next few months. The present exposition is not, of course, so large as the world's fair; but it is better arranged as to details and everything is so classified as to render an intelligent study of it as a whole both interesting and profitable.

The general impression after one visited the world's fair was a confused jumble; people saw so much they remembered nothing. Here one may spend a week and see everything on the grounds and so classify it in his mind that he goes home he will have a comprehensive idea of the whole, and if he doesn't conclude that next to the world's fair this is the best thing of the kind ever held in this country he must be steeped in prejudice. The grounds are unsurpassed, the buildings are most picturesque, the exhibits varied and exhaustive, both foreign and domestic; while as for the people the generous hospitality and cordiality cannot be described, and will long remain one of the bonds that will rivet together the north and the south as was hardly dreamed of thirty years ago.

It is a marvelous thing that Atlanta has accomplished in the face of hard times, financial depression and lack of public confidence, but she has accomplished it, and now the general verdict is: "Behold the miracle the south has wrought."

President of the Grand Association of Women's Press Clubs.

Wonderful Art of the Russian Woman.

Madam Alexandrina Linoff Pogosky, who is in charge of the Russian cottage and Russian industries in the upper hallway of the woman's building is getting her exhibits beautifully and artistically placed. She is an extremely interesting woman, handsome and intelligent and talks delightfully upon the industries of the Russian people. An artist herself, she is most appreciative of all that is painstaking and exquisite in needle work and lace making of the Russian peasants. She speaks with pride of the artistic hand-work and describes it very truly as wonderful for the art of peasants who very often are uneducated and untrained.

In the little cabinet, which is the most precious of all her possessions, she has a beautiful array of Russian stones and jewelry, both polished and rough. These stones, she tells me, come from Siberia and are so plentiful that they are bartered about by the people at the fairs as our countrymen sell eggs and chickens. Some beautiful specimens of malachite, and upon them are carved bunches of berries, their leaves of jade, and fruit of the most exquisite kind. These are found in the country. She has the little implement which the peasant uses, and she shows the process from beginning to end. A beautiful brooch in the form of a strawberry leaf showing the flower and the berry all carved out of stones in the natural color. Great strings of beads, some of which are made of the brilliancy of diamonds and exquisitely cut are among the many treasures in this case. There are also some fine designs of Russian glass, designed and ornamented by Madam Boehm, a gifted artist in that line.

The art of ornamentation among Russian people has a strong oriental suggestion. I asked Madam Pogosky whence this came, and she replied by quoting the old adage: "Scratch a Russian and you would find Tartar." "But," she went on to say, "that is really not so. The higher class of Russians have no Tartar blood. We get our ideas from the Greek religion, from our own, and in ornamentation we follow out the ancient Byzantine patterns."

The beautiful Russian enamel spoons, and boxes, which she showed me, are done mostly by women, the Russian women being very deft in these arts.

There was a Russian peasant's exquisite dress, embroidered in robes also worn by the Russian peasants.

"The industry and patience of these people," says the man, "is the true metal and gold of the world. One would find a peasant people as painstaking and tireless in their labors."

To prove this truth to me she delved deep in a big box and took something therefrom which looked like a great big handful of snow. It was one of those tiny Nuremberg shavings knit from the wool of the Thibet goat—so misty, so soft—a veritable zephyr of a covering. She has another shawl of this hand-knit pattern, which contains twenty-four million stitches and weighs forty-nine square yards; it weighs only eight ounces and can be drawn through a finger ring.

She has some magnificent specimens of wood carving from the school of woodcarving established by Madame Mamontoff. After this I was shown a number of beautiful line drawings of silver work, and also some fine specimens of silver embroidery done on cotton stuffs. The cotton is woven and embroidered by the peasant women and the silver is the true metal and gold of the world.

The lace here are exceedingly beautiful and perhaps the finest are those made to order by Madame Pogosky's school. She takes both antique lace and the most interesting lace exhibit she thinks is that made by children and which has not yet been opened up. I want these children to get on here for their work, for it is exquisite. Children do fine lace-making which grown people in Russia will not take the patience to accomplish; the finest lace in Russia is made by them.

From her own hands madame has some exquisite work to show in carving. One panel bears the interesting face and twisted head of Paderewski. Another process shows a unique process of art in burnt wood engraving, which is afterward painted. The subject is the heads of a Russian bride and groom, one who gives infinite opportunity for pottery. The colors are all burned in and they can stand washing, heat or cold just the same as fine porcelain or china.

This Russian exhibit will certainly be one full of interest to visitors. Its foreign air, in the first place, gives a peculiar charm and the Russian people themselves are well worth investigating and studying. They are a very different race, and are the greatest linguists and among the greatest artists and artists in the world.

A Distinguished Worker

In the Emergency Hospital. One of the most distinguished women now at work at the exposition is Miss Almira C. Davis, the superintendent of the Emergency hospital there.

Miss Davis is one of the best-known trained nurses in the United States and the fact of her being engaged to look after this work here is one of the clearest strokes of management among many others of Mrs. Nellie Peters Black, the accomplished head of the movement to have a hospital at the fair.

Miss Davis's principal work for the past few years has been the establishment of training schools for nurses in different parts of the country—the largest and most successful set in operation by her being that of the Episcopal hospital in Philadelphia. Atlanta has directly partaken of the benefits of that school in the work of the Grady hospital, with this difference, that she is a graduate under Miss Davis, of the Philadelphia school.

Miss Davis is a tiny, quiet, gentle-voiced woman decorated with many medals and she ever shows. She is a graduate of the Bellevue training school and during her career has superintended and trained nurses in the New England Woman and Children's hospital in Boston, the Hammond street hospital in Brooklyn, the North street hospital in Louisville, the Episcopal training school in Philadelphia, the Blessing hospital in Quincy, Ill., and several others.

Miss Florence Nightingale, who has been in close retirement for many years, honored Miss Davis with an interview during a recent visit in London. Socially she has received many flattering attentions, most of which, owing to her modesty, she has declined. She is the daughter of the late Naylor C. Davis, an engineer in the United States navy, who lost his life through a disastrous accident in Charleston harbor during the war. It will be remembered that his boat was sunk in the night with all on board, not a single person surviving.

We are indebted to the fact that Miss Davis is taking a year's rest for her acceptance of the pleasant duties of the emergency hospital, that she has been able to recuperate by the double means of our Georgia home and the recreations of our great show.

The engagement of Miss Frances Harwood to Mr. Arthur Gibbs of Savannah, is announced and the wedding will occur on November 18th at the country home of the bride's mother, near Marietta, Ga. It will be an interesting bit of intelligence to Miss Harwood's many warm friends and admirers here. She has lately been elected to the number of years and is considered one of the most charming young women in gay society here. She is a graduate of the original and although she has every right to be called a social success, she is not one bit of a pedant in her brilliancy. She is quite gifted as an artist and an altogether competent business woman.

Mr. Gibbs belongs to one of the aristocratic families of Savannah. He is handsome and well educated, and is a graduate of the University of Georgia. He is a member of the bar and is a successful lawyer.

Every good wish goes out to these young folks from those who know them.

Mrs. Samuel Spencer, wife of the president of the Southern railway, who is one of the members of the committee of the exposition, is one of the most prominent figures at the exposition. She is a member of the New York commission, and she will take a prominent part in the work for the success of the exposition.

Miss L. C. Andrews, who is giving daily cooking lessons in the French Red Kidney Beans, is a graduate of the French Red Kidney Beans, as packed by the Illinois Canning Company, Hoopston, Ill. I find to be delicious in flavor and in fact, a most excellent food. I know of no other food so good as this, it is certainly very great for the

DOING GOOD WORK.

The Exposition Police Maintaining Good Order There.

Captain Henry Jennings and his force of exposition police are maintaining the best of order at the exposition grounds and few cases have been made by Captain Jennings' men since the opening day of the big show.

Roundsman Sheridan and his night force of eight men at the grounds have been patrolling the place thoroughly as possible with the number of men. It is generally conceded that the force is entirely inadequate to afford proper protection during the night.

Captain Jennings is assisted in the day by Sergeant Whitley. J. D. Harris is station house keeper at the grounds. J. L. Beavers, for several years a call officer at police headquarters, is acting as wagon man at the exposition during the show. He is one of the best known members of the police force.

Mr. V. M. Barrett, recently elected to the police force, is acting as turnkey at the exposition station house.

John Heybach is signal operator at the grounds and he has as fine a set of police signal wires and instruments to work with as there are in the city. The electrical system at the grounds is perfect. This refers to the police department, not to the lighting system.

WATER BOARD TODAY

It May Be That a Superintendent of the Waterworks Will Be Elected.

THREE CANDIDATES WERE OUT

But There May Be Another in the Race. The Board May Postpone the Election Until Next Week.

The board of water commissioners will convene in regular monthly session today in the waterworks office at the city hall.

And before the meeting adjourns the board may elect a successor to the late Captain Richards, superintendent of the waterworks system of Atlanta.

It may, however, be that the board will postpone the election until some day next week, and that when the meeting of that body adjourns today it will be to meet early next week, after the regular session of the general council on Monday next. Some of the members of the board are disposed to have the election over with at once, while there are members who do not want the election to take place until some day next week.

After the routine work of the session has been completed today the committee appointed by resolution at the called meeting of the board last Thursday to prepare a memorial to the late superintendent will submit its report. That report has already been written by the chairman of the committee, Judge Lilly, and will be submitted to the members of the committee before the board is called to order for ratification. It is an excellent paper and covers fully the good work of the late superintendent and recites the great loss the board and the city have sustained by his death. The memorial will be made a part of the records of the office, and a copy will be transmitted to the general council next Monday with the official notification of the death of Captain Richards.

If the board decides to take up the election of a superintendent at the meeting today, the board will have to select a candidate, but so far only three have been brought into the race positively. Captain Travis, one of the candidates, has been connected with the waterworks as chief engineer for years, and his friends have been working for him since his name has been mentioned in connection with the vacancy. Should the board select Captain Travis as Captain Richards' successor, it will cause a vacancy at the waterworks office at once, and the board will have to select a successor to the late Captain Richards.

Mr. Terry, whose name has been mentioned for the place, has been secretary of the board for a number of years, and should be elected superintendent of the waterworks. Mr. M. L. Collier, whose friends have been working for him for the last two or three days, if elected will leave a good place at the waterworks office, and his friends will have to be filled by the powers of that road.

So, if it is either one of the three gentlemen whose names have been mentioned to go before the board, it will not stop the place to make room for another man in another place.

The Finance Committee Will Meet.

The members of the finance committee have been requested to meet in the council chamber this morning at 10 o'clock.

The call for the meeting was issued yesterday afternoon by Mr. Inman, chairman of the committee, and while Mr. Inman did not state just what he wanted the committee to meet for, he declared that it would be an important meeting and expressed a desire that every member of the committee should be present. It is thought that the meeting has been called for the purpose of receiving the city tax collector's final report.

Mr. Inman will show the amount of money Mr. Payne and his deputies have taken in since the tax collections commenced. The committee may be requested to take up the annual appropriation for '96 and see what can be done with the income of the city so as to make it meet the expenditures for the year.

The Grady Hospital Committee.

The special committee appointed by the mayor at the last meeting of the general council to investigate the affairs at the Grady hospital will meet today.

At a recent meeting of the council a paper was submitted showing that the appropriation to the hospital had run short and that the hospital had been closed up before the last of October under an increase was given. There were several of Atlanta's most prominent physicians, who were present at the meeting of the council to be heard, but who declined to go before the council when it was decided to appoint a committee to look into the condition of affairs, preferring to be heard before the committee. The physicians have looked over the field and will be heard by the special committee tomorrow. The indications are that the report of the committee will recommend to the general council the appropriation of more money for the Grady hospital and that the finance committee will be called upon to make the money can be secured. It is absolutely necessary to secure the money for the hospital or it cannot be run.

The Street Committee Meet.

The street committee held a short meeting in the council chamber yesterday afternoon.

A large batch of papers was presented by the chairman of the meeting and each one was taken up by the members. Several pieces of work were ordered by a vote of the committee and the reports will all be submitted to the general council at the meeting Monday.

The City Hall Offices Closed.

All of the offices in the city hall were closed from 10 o'clock yesterday morning until 2 o'clock in the afternoon so that the city hall officials might attend the funeral of the late Captain Richards. After 2 o'clock in the afternoon the offices were all open as usual.

And a Sharp Advance—The General Stock List About Unchanged—The Bull in Wheat Fell Through.

New York, October 3.—Stocks ruled firm today, although the changes outside of the industrial were confined to the fractions. The industrial were the features, and of these Chicago Gas was the special attraction. This stock was up 1/8, to 2 1/2, from 2 1/4. The advance in rails has not decided the railroad on a course of waiting is evident by a 40,000-ton order from the Pennsylvania road at the new price, while indications appear of further requirements by other lines for 1896 delivery. The 2 1/2 basis at eastern mills being limited to shipments before January 1st. It is the state of demand which has not yet appeared, but which there are reasons to believe will soon materialize, that puzzles the prophets. In the week a few lots of Bessemer iron in second hands has been sold at from $15.00 to $16 at valley furnace, and in one instance $15.25 in the valley was touched. Yet furnace men in the main have maintained the former attitude, and have refrained from weakening the market further by offering iron at current prices. It is figured that the rate of Bessemer production, estimated from the blast furnace figures of September 1st, if kept up for a year, would mean a consumption of nearly one million tons of Lake Superior Bessemer ore. Yet, if steel rail orders come up to the point, authorities are counting on consumption will continue to maintain a margin over production. Country iron is firmly maintained the latest advances, both on eastern and southern brands. Lake Superior charcoal continues strong and short stock give promise of higher prices. Early Morning Gossip.

Dow Jones News Company: Earnings for St. Paul for the fourth week in September, increase, $70,321; Rock Island increase, $8,088.

Tennessee Coal and Iron will have all its debt paid on a cash surplus of $400,000, approximately $150,000 in February next. It can easily resume dividends on the common stock and probably will.

Colorado Coal and Iron is practically certain to earn a large dividend on the common stock, and some time next year a dividend will probably be declared. The company has been thoroughly financed recently, and never had a business it is doing today. There are no pools in any of these stocks, but the owners of all of them have been adding to their lines, and are willing to buy more.

Tennessee Coal and Iron has the largest support from the street of any of the four and this is not quite as closely held as the others.

The rise in Sugar was credited to the bull pool in that stock. Mr. Blair bought 3,000 shares at the opening. During the forenoon Henderson bought 2,000. Jacoby and Co. 2,000. Worners 1,500 and numerous brokers 1,000 shares each. The selling was without special feature. The talk in the crowd was that it would go up 2 or 3 points more on this turn.

The opening was irregular. General Electric was up 1/2, Sugar 1/2 and Tennessee Coal and Iron 1/2. Tobacco, Distilling and Cattle Feeding and Iron were fractionally lower. Bull points were current on Chicago Gas and Sugar. St. Paul was bought on an increase in earnings.

Sterling exchange was firmer yesterday, the offered price of Wednesday afternoon being the bid price. The firmer tone resulted more from the scarcity of bills than from an increased demand.

Closing Stock Review.

New York, October 3.—New York News Bureau.—The stock market today generally ruled firm, with occasional reactions, due to profit taking and the lessened demand from the short interest. The activity, however, was largely confined to special issues.

A sharp advance was enjoyed by Illinois Steel and Tennessee Coal and Iron was higher on a new large Carnegie contract for Alabama.

Sugar was active, but lower in the face of further advances in refined sugar. Gas continued to receive inside support, and there was plenty of talk regarding the progress of the reorganization scheme. Distilling and Cattle Feeding was heavy on continued realizing on the Greenhut settlement.

The railway list was inclined to droop with London houses and early sellers of St. Paul. The weekly earnings of St. Paul and Rock Island's September statement did not, upon analysis, come up to bullish expectations.

The New York market closed irregular.

The Iron Trade.

Cleveland, O., October 3.—The Iron Trade Review says today:

"The question of immediate money to the iron trade is to what extent surface indications are a real index of the course of the market in the next few weeks. Reports from all quarters concur in the statement that buying is lighter, but there is unanimity also in the view that an undertone of strength is present with the waiting. That the advance in rails has not decided the railroad on a course of waiting is evident by a 40,000-ton order from the Pennsylvania road at the new price, while indications appear of further requirements by other lines for 1896 delivery. The 2 1/2 basis at eastern mills being limited to shipments before January 1st. It is the state of demand which has not yet appeared, but which there are reasons to believe will soon materialize, that puzzles the prophets. In the week a few lots of Bessemer iron in second hands has been sold at from $15.00 to $16 at valley furnace, and in one instance $15.25 in the valley was touched. Yet furnace men in the main have maintained the former attitude, and have refrained from weakening the market further by offering iron at current prices. It is figured that the rate of Bessemer production, estimated from the blast furnace figures of September 1st, if kept up for a year, would mean a consumption of nearly one million tons of Lake Superior Bessemer ore. Yet, if steel rail orders come up to the point, authorities are counting on consumption will continue to maintain a margin over production. Country iron is firmly maintained the latest advances, both on eastern and southern brands. Lake Superior charcoal continues strong and short stock give promise of higher prices. Steel has shared in the weakness of Bessemer iron. Billets for 1896 delivery, the 2 1/2 basis at $23.25. Wheeling district and at $23.00. LOUIS JAMES AS VIRGINIUS.

The Famous Tragedy Presented Admirably.

One of the theatrical attractions of real merit is at the Lyceum. The star is Mr. Louis James, one of the best known and one of the ablest of American actors, and the production of "Virginia," which he gave last night, was one of the best things that has been seen here in many a day.

It is hardly necessary to say anything about the quality of Mr. James's acting. He is very well known here in Atlanta and has always been a favorite. In the days when he was Lawrence Barrett's leading man, then later when he came as joint star with Marie Walworth, and since then when he has come as a co-star with Frederic Ward in the Ward-James company, he has always been welcomed, and he has always deserved his welcome.

Louis James is a sterling actor, who has won his way to his position as a star through great native ability which has received the best of training of the old stock days—though he is not old by any means. He is particularly strong in the robust roles and is, therefore, splendidly qualified for the portrayal of that noble Roman father, Virginius, whom we all love. He was splendidly strong in the stirring scenes of great tragedy.

His managers have surrounded James with the necessary accessories of an excellent company and all the scenic paraphernalia necessary to an elaborate production of these plays. Miss Alma, the leading woman, is new to us, but she is certainly a "find," to use the manager's term. She is a young actress of real magnetism, and combining with that magnetism real ability. She was an ideal Virginius. The other members of the company who deserve special mention are: Mr. Guy Lindsay, who is a coming young man of the stage; Mr. William Harris, one of the best known American actors; Mr. Harry Langdon and others.

"Tonight 'Othello' will be the bill. The audience last night was a thoroughly applauded one, and Mr. James and the members of his company were given hearty receptions.

"The Span of Life," the play that comes to the Lyceum next week, is famous for its scene where three wiry athletes form a human bridge, over which the heroine safely passes.

At the Grand.
"A Fatted Calf." William Gil's new comedy, was given its second presentation at the Grand last night, the audience being much larger than on the opening night. As on the preceding evening, the comedy created no end of amusement, and was greatly enjoyed by everybody.

George Richards, Annie Ward Tiffany, Carry Roma, Tom Browne and, in fact, every member of the company scored hits. Richards is a first-rate comedian and has ample opportunity to display his ability. Tom Browne's whistling, the most wonderful ever heard here, won for him repeated encores. Miss Roma has a fine soprano voice and uses it to great advantage. The entire performance was a highly enjoyable one.

"A Fatted Calf" will be presented to night and at matinee tomorrow night. The close its engagement tomorrow night.

"The Dazzler" Comes Next.
It calls to mind pleasant recollections to say that Cosgrove & Grant's comedians in "The Dazzler" will be seen at the Grand opera house on Monday and Tuesday evenings. The piece is a new one, and contains a very bright, humorous and well-connected story, still leaving room for the brilliant specialties which have always been one of the strong features of this production.

Gilmore's Band Sunday Afternoon.
Sunday afternoon, at the palatial Grand, Gilmore's band will give the second of its Sunday concerts. Victor Herbert, the conductor, has arranged a brilliant programme, made up of classical and popular selections, so that all classes will be pleased. Many persons have wished to hear this celebrated organization in a theater built with especial regard for the acoustics, and this will give them the desired opportunity.

The price of admission will be 50 cents, so every one can afford to attend.

At the Columbia.
Mabel Paige, the popular little soubrette, continues to draw good-sized audiences at the Columbia. Last night she presented "La Belle Marguerite." Tonight "The Little Hussar" will be given. Tomorrow at matinee Miss Paige will present "The Little Egyptian." Her engagement will close Saturday night.

Ward and Vokes, said to be the funniest farce comedy team on the road, will be seen for two nights and matinee at the Columbia. They will begin Tuesday night next. They will appear in their celebrated impersonations of Lord Percy and Harold in the farce comedy "A Run on the Bank." Professor Sami Baldwin, the "White Mahatma," in his great mystery entertainment, will soon be seen at the Columbia.

At the Trocadero.
A good crowd was at the City Trocadero last night. The bill presented was an excellent one, and was heartily enjoyed.

THE LAST FREE CONCERT

Of the Freyer & Bradley Music Company at 11 O'clock Saturday.

Among the numbers to be played on the autoharp Saturday morning by Mr. Aldis J. Gery, the soloist of Gilmore's famous band, will be the "Evening Star," "Tannhauser," and in this and other compositions the instrument will be heard to good advantage, demonstrating its adaptability and showing clearly its powers in all classes of compositions. The autoharp combines all the beautiful effects of the harp and zither, yet being entirely distinctive in its tone quality.

Mr. P. T. McGrath, who makes his first appearance in the south at this concert, is a composer of merit, and his performances upon the banjo, mandolin and guitar rank him as an artist of no mean ability. Mr. McGrath has done much to elevate the standard of banjo playing.

This concert will be the last free one to be given by Freyer & Bradley Music Company for some time, as the work entailed in preparing for the extraordinary engagements of the Damrosch German Opera Company, which great organization, numbering 125 people, appears at the Grand Theater 12th and 13th, and the world's greatest pianist, Ignace J. Paderewski, at the Grand Theater 22d, will take up a great deal of time.

MOONSHINERS' DAY

Judge Newman Has Given Next Monday to the Blockade Distillers,

AND THREE WEEKS BESIDES

How the Moonshine Business Is Divided Among the Counties of the District.

Next Monday will be moonshiners' day. It will not be on the exposition grounds, however, but in Judge Newman's courtroom. A heavy racket gives promise of the fact that scores of moonshiners will sweep down upon the city Monday and Atlanta for the time being will be in the hands of the blockade distillers.

Many of these offenders are under bond for their appearance in court and as a feature of their coming to the city next week they will no doubt take in the exhibition.

The first few days of court week always brings a crowd of people to the city, including not only moonshiners and those charged with crimes and misdemeanors against the federal law, but also a vast army of witnesses. On account of the large number of cases to be tried at this time of the court the multitude of people interested in one way or another, will be very greatly increased.

Forty-One Counties Represented. Mr. C. D. Camp, of the district attorney's office, has just completed the moonshine calendar for the first three weeks of the term.

The showing of this calendar gives a splendid insight into the moonshine business in the northern district of Georgia. The number of blockade distillers to be tried is 205, divided among 41 counties as follows: Cherokee, 24; Rabun, 16; Habersham, 12; Hall, 12; Lumpkin, 10; Haralson, 10; Gilmer, 8; Murray, 8; Cobb, 7; Fannin, 7; Walker, 7; Hart, 6; Paulding, 6; Elbert, 4; Walton, 4; Gordon, 4; Towns, 4; Gwinnett, 3; Union, 3; Chattooga, 3; Whitfield, 3; Floyd, 3; Banks, 3; Rockdale, 3; Bartow, 3; White, 3; Pickens, 3; Milton, 2; Franklin, 2; Carroll, 1; Fayette, 1; Henry, 1; Polk, 1; Calhoun, 1; Oconee, 1; Campbell, 1; Clayton, 1; Forsyth, 1.

Cherokee county leads the procession by a good majority, though Rabun and Habersham are both entitled to honorable mention. Hall, Lumpkin and Haralson tie for the fourth place on the roll of honor, while Murray, famous as the home of the whitecap, is credited with only eight moonshiners.

This tabulated statement of the moonshine industry in north Georgia, as shown by the court records, will be of interest to the readers of The Constitution, especially in the northern district.

"Cherokee always takes off the first prize," said Mr. C. D. Camp yesterday afternoon, "and stands at the head of the class. The distillers, however, belong to the milder class of violators and give but very little trouble aside from making whiskey."

In Murray county the distillers are not so numerous, but the lawless characters of the mob in this district that is not known to the people of that section. It was in Murray county that the whitecap oraganizations have been committed in that county.

Besides these cases already assigned for trial the district attorney will carry a number of others before the grand jury, which meets next Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

This is also the hour fixed for opening the fall term of the federal court. Judge Newman will deliver his charge to the grand jury at that time and designate one of their number to act as foreman.

Membership of the Jury.

The following is the membership of the grand jury: Henry N. Stegall, Atlanta, Ga.; Ed L. Grant, Decatur, Ga.; F. Maxwell, Marietta, Ga.; Robert S. McWaters, Eugene H. Thornton, Bradley T. Watson, Anton H. Deikin, John D. Bender, Joseph M. High, William H. Perrine, Henry L. Atwater, David P. Morris, Howell C. Peoples, John Venable, Atlanta, Ga.; James H. Bryant, Atlanta, Ga.; Parker E. Brown, Henry county; Zachariah T. Potts, Leitch C. Doza, Atlanta, Ga.; John H. Farr, Fayette county; Samuel M. Inman, Adolphus Adams, Thomas S. Tugwell, Atlanta, Ga.; Charles M. Speer, McDonough, Ga.; Joseph P. Nourup, Samuel P. Marbot, Guy Mitchell, Ebenezer B. Brown, Collier H. Belcher, Henry P. Grant, Luke T. Hayden.

Back to Arkansas.

John Holt, a blockade distiller from Arkansas, was arrested in Gilmer county and brought to Atlanta. This morning a telegram was immediately sent on notifying the proper authorities of the capture of the prisoner and a deputy marshal will reach the city this morning with the purpose of taking Holt back to Arkansas.

Scrofula permeates humanity. It is thoroughly infused into the blood. Scrofula is a man is wholly free from it. Hod's Sarsaparilla, which drives out the poison and purifies the blood, cures scrofula.

WEARS THE SUIT.

A Negro Locked Up for Stealing the Clothes on His Back.

Jim Mims, colored, is languishing behind the bars at police headquarters, accused of stealing the clothes he now wears. The articles on Jim's body are claimed by J. O. Peacock, who declares they were stolen from his house in the rear of 24 Luckie street, about two weeks ago.

Mims was arrested yesterday by Officers Walton and Herrington and locked up on a warrant charging him with larceny. He will probably be given a hearing today.

WHAT KOLA DOES.

RENEWES THE TISSUES AND PREVENTS WASTE.

It Is a Sure Specific in All Cases of Nervous Debility.

The Modern and Approved Form of the Remedy Is Dr. Charcot's Kola Nervine Tablets—Alike Speedy and Certain.

Any modern physician will tell you of the virtues of the Kola nut as an invigorator, a sure specific for all nervous complaints, a restorer of waste tissues and a provoker of energy. For centuries the Kola nut has been used by natives of the Dark Continent as a natural and harmless sustainer of labor, a preventer of fatigue and a general preserver of health. Modern research has shown that the nut contains a powerful stimulant of the nerves, brain, blood and muscles. Dr. Charcot, the eminent specialist of his day in nervous diseases, has prepared a prescription after studious research and careful experiment. His Kola Nervine is indorsed by Dr. Shoemaker, of Philadelphia; Dr. Gilson, of the United States navy; Dr. Monnet, of Germany; Dr. Schlegelhaufen, of Germany; and many others equally reliable and famous.

Dr. Charcot's Kola Nervine Tablets are compounded upon the great prescription and from freshly imported undried Kola nuts.

They are a sure specific in all cases of nervous debility, neuralgia, nervous dyspepsia, indigestion, impoverished blood and melancholia. They renew the body's vigor and prevent undue fatigue. They are an absolute boon to those cursed with sleeplessness, restlessness and unnatural lassitude and fatigue. They are both speedy and effective and wherever they have been introduced have leaped at once into lasting public favor.

Read One Man's Testimony. Mr. S. V. Harris is chief clerk of the Ryan, St. Paul, Minn., one of the principal hotels of the country. This is what he says:

"I commenced taking Dr. Charcot's Kola Nervine Tablets a few days ago. I was not a believer in proprietary medicines, but I was in such a nervous condition and so great a sufferer from sleeplessness that I felt bound to try a mode of relief which had so much testimony in its favor. I felt the effects of the remedy—felt them with me. I was engaged by mail or wire, the gratitude is in the majority. I sleep as I have not for a long time and I am reinvigorated mentally and physically. I recommend the remedy unhesitatingly and earnestly."

Sold by all druggists. Price per package $1 (one month's treatment). Be sure Dr. Charcot's name is on the wrapper.
